Many place names in Washington derive from the languages of Native American tribes who inhabited the region long before European contact. Tribes such as the Coast Salish, Chinook, Yakama, and Spokane contributed names that often describe local features, resources, or spiritual concepts.

Examples include:

- Skagit: Named after the Skagit tribe, with the name believed to mean "the people of the unfished salmon" or "people of the river."

European Exploration and Settlement

European explorers, primarily British, Spanish, and Russians, played a role in naming regions during the 18th and 19th centuries. Many names commemorate explorers, politicians, or are descriptive of the landscape.
